ADVOCACY

The Ag Council provides year-round governmental affairs services for the interest of Arkansas farmers and agricultural businesses in both Little Rock and Washington, D.C. Our members facilitate the development of public policies that benefit farmers, agribusinesses and rural communities. We are fully committed to promoting the interests of Arkansas agriculture.

NETWORKING

The Ag Council has several hundred members and thousands of followers including farmers, landowners, agribusinesses and others interested in agriculture. Regular meetings throughout the year provide opportunities for our members to engage with farmers, industry leaders and policy makers.

INFORMATION

The Ag Council publishes an informative newsletter, operates a website with real-time updates, and maintains an active social media presence. Through these outlets we offer timely, relevant and valuable information to members. Additionally, we serve as a resource for members to provide information, access and advice related to public policy, laws and regulations.

LEADERSHIP

The Ag Council offers leadership opportunities for members within the organization and beyond. We possess authority to nominate individuals to serve on state and federal ag boards and advisory committees, such as commodity research and promotion boards. Our goal is to identify and promote agriculture leaders of today, while fostering an environment for future leaders to grow and thrive.

INSURANCE

Ag Council members may be eligible for high-value insurance programs including Ag Comp, a superior Agricultural Workers Compensation policy, and Accidental Death and Dismemberment Insurance coverage. We encourage all members to consider workers compensation through Ag Comp, an affordable and proven risk management policy that protects Arkansas agribusinesses and their employees.
